

Garrison Says Oswald Didn't Fire at JFK

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Dist. Atty. James Garrison claimed today Lee Harvey Oswald never did fire a bullet at President Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963, but was just a member of a paramilitary group responsible for the president's assassination.

In an interview with Playboy magazine, Garrison said Kennedy was killed by "a previous secret team of at least seven men," all of them former members of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Garrison said the men, whom he described as "anti-Castro adventurers and members of the paramilitary right," plotted against Kennedy because the president "was working for reconciliation with the U.S. and Castro's Cuba."

Harvey, Oswald and others in the conspiracy,

Garrison said, but fired no shots at the president.

In a controversial dispute, Garrison also claims that he and the CIA know the identity of the real assassins.

Asked specifically if the actions he has under suspicion will be arrested, Garrison said: "I can say is that this is an ongoing case and there will be events."
